There are two kinds of manufacturers that ought to advertise-those who have all the business they can attend to, and those who have advertising to the manufacturer whose plant is running to its full capacity and who finds it difficult to keep up with his orders.

. at what guaranty has such a manufacturer that this happy condition will continue?

Advertising is an insurance against future disaster. It creates persistent, ever-increasing demand. The advertising of to-day will not only bring present orders but familiarize everybody with your trade-mark and the merits of your goods.

Thus at the time when you need it most the impulse gained by past advertising will carry you safely over what might otherwise be a fatal situation.

The second class-the manufacturer whose capacity is larger than the demand-must do one of two things: advertise his brand of goods and place himself in a position where the public will demand them and insist on having them; or be content to take a place far back in the rear.

In condering this most important period, while he has given especial prominence to Illi-nois and to her sons, he has sought to show that their chief glory is in their re lations with and devotion to the whole great nation.

Availing himself of the license usually ceorded a writer of fiction, the number has created situations in which he makes real characters appear, with the purpose of placing those characters more vividly before the reader than would have been possible had he confined himself, as he must the historian, to a narrative of events and incidents as they actually occurred.

OTHER NEW FICTION.

"Deacon Lysander" is a new story by McL. Greene, issued by the Baker & Taylor Company. For the first time in her career as a novelist, Mrs. Greene leaves the quaint life of the seashore, but she roes with her New Encland characters, the same ptrong, tender, sympathetic type for which she has beome famous, and this new book is crowded, too, with a humor which surpasses her previous work in its variety and pleasant dace, go to Washington, "to see gayety and happiness," and there, in a typical boarding-house, which is also a girls' boarding school, meet with many adventures, striving hard at first to avoid "the false notes" of which their boarding mistress has such horror, but eventually giving rein to the sweep of their sympathy and finding much happiness in their jour

"The Tomboy at Work" is by Jeannette L Gilder, author of "The Autobiography of a Tomboy." The editor of The Critic here continues her account of the irre pressible "Tomboy," whose doings amused so many readers two years ago. The young lady has now become a "busines girl" and breadwinner; but, as might be expected from such a personality, her adentures continue to be frequent and most entertaining. "The Buccaneers, a Story of the Black Flag in Business." is an up-to-date novel. giving, with startling candor and lealism picture of modern corporation methods of the "frenzied" type in dealing with rivals in business. Two great concerns clash; wit is sharpened against wit; schemes and plottings are met with tricks and counterplots; a love story winds its roublous way through the clashing and twisting interests of the rivals; the relation of family ties to "business" is shown relentlessly. It is an interesting story of the times. Since the story ran serially in the Saturday Evening Post last summer, the author has materially recor structed and enlarged it. BIOGRAPHY.

"The True Henry Clay," by Joseph M. Rogers, is the newest addition to the "True Biographies," a series published by the Lippincott Company. Mr. Rogers has made a close study of his subject, and he writes from the knowledge obtained through a long and close family friendship with the great American, as well as from a thorough acquaintance with the literature on the subject. He had access to all the private Clay papers now in possession of the Clay family, who gave to him as well every assistance in the preparation of his work. His book is notable for its wealth of anecdote and for its portrayal of Clay as a man. The volume contains twenty-four illustrations, most of them from photographs made aspecially for the

Within a few minutes the mathinery had been repaired and air was forced into the shaft. An attempt was made to look the cage, but it failed. Mine Boss Reed then volunteered to go down into the shaft in the cage, but it failed. Mine Boss Reed then volunteered to go down into the shaft in a bucket attached to a rope. Reed was slowly lowered to the bottom.

After a wait that seemed iong to those at the top, there was a rap at the rope and the bucket was rapidly hoisted. Trusty was the first to be brought out. He was badly burned and his leg and been crushed by the falling slate. Gourley was next, and he was badly out on the legs and body. Otis Johnson was burned about the face and neck and was suffering from a cut on the head. Kaid, the last of the four to be brought out, was slightly wounded. All four of these men were found by Red near the lump. John Seagrenves and Sullivan were vorking north of the dump and escaped injury.

Every effort is being made to reach the entombed men, and a large force is at work, but it is shought hardly probable that they can be gotten at in time to save them.

The disaster has cast a gloom ever the city, and everything is being done to under the gens of the families of the four nen who are considered beyond help.

The interior decorations are of the Louis XIV, the vestibule is finished in imported marble, in which the blue Alps is consplcuous, the curtains are the handsomest seen in the West, and the floors are carpeted under the geats.

W. A. Swassey, the architect, said yesterday that the Garrick was complete in every detail, and the most expensive the ater west of New York, surpassing any of the Chicago theaters in its magnificence of general effect, furnishings and insibings.

It will require only a few days more to complete the Garrick, and already laborers are removing the debris from the building, which will be opened for inspection next week. Mr. Swasey will give a reception to the architects, newspaper men and theatrical folk the latter part of the coming week, when they will be invited to inspect the new theater. The only work remaining to be done is in the vestibule, where some delay was occasioned by the delayed arrival of some of the blue Alps marble. The seats have been placed and the ticket office probably will be opened next week for the sale of seats for the Rehan engagement.

Belief That Federal Judge Will Resign Brings Applicants From Almost Every Town.

LADD CONSIDERED PROMINENT BOOKS MORE THAN DOUBLED.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 3.-The fact that Judge John F. Philips will have reached the age at which he can retire from the United States District Court in few weeks is considered responsible for the many candidates who have announced for the position. Judge Philips may dis appoint them temporarily by continuing to perform the duties of the office for months or years, but that does not affect their anxiety for appointment.

Three men in Kansas City are considered candidates. It was said four years ago, when Sanford B. Ladd was nominated for Judge of the State Supreme Court, that his real ambition was to succeed Judge Philips at the right time.

Mr. Ladd's friends have kept his name nspicuous as a possible future Federa Judge ever since, and it was stated to day that his appointment was one of thos recommended by Thomas J. Akins in his recent trip with J. H. Harris to Wash ington. Harris is friendly to Ladd, but whether he paid attention to any candi-didates other than his own is not know to whether he paid attention to any candididates other than his own is not know to the politicians at home.

Another Kansas City man whose ambitions are in the same direction, but with a different class of supporters, is S. W. Moore. He is a younger man than Ladd, probably the youngest whose name will be presented to the President. Henry M. Beardsley is also considered a candidate.

AKINS OPPOSES HOUTS.

Nearly every large town in the district outside of Kansas City has a candidate. Lee Houts of Warrensburg has probably more indorsements than any of the others. He was Rube Ogiesby's attorney in a case which became famous and made Ogiesby the Democratic nominee for Railroad Commissioner. Houts does not expect arything but opposition from Akins and his supporters, because at Chicago, when he was a deegate to the Republican National Convention, he took a leading part in the fight to beat Akins and elect W. S. Dickey a member of the National Committee. Houts has been liberally indorsed in the country towns, and by some Kansas City Republicans.

St. Joseph Sedaila and Joplin have candidates, and each town can show cause why it should have the honor. Sedalla really furnished Judge Philips to the State, and was honored on the Democratic side by the election of his law partner, George G. Vest, to the United States Senate.

St. Joseph has one candidate widely known, Judge Randolph. He was a candi-

Mrs. Dencen had never been in Springfield and had not seen the executive mansion, which is to be her home during the coming four years, so we took advantage of an invitation from Governor and Mrs. Yates to inspect the mansion and enjoy a social visit with them. We have spent a very pleasant day and regret that it is necessary to return to Chicago so soon."

does not expire until February II. 1908.

Much quiet work is already being done.
The route to the President being direct, politicians are not handicapped as heretofore in placing their applications, and this time they are working hard.

Under the last Cleveland administration the Postmaster here was chosen by means of a portable ballot box, carried from voter to voter. The Congressman then recommended for appointment the man who received the largest number of votes, irrespective of other influences.

The candidates for the place, who have thus far announced, are V. T. Williams, the present incumbent, and William H. Channell. a retired merchant. Others have been mentioned, but as yet none of them has announced.

Williams served under Harrison's administration, and was reappointed by McKinley. The politicians who supported him against Professor C. L. Mosely three years ago, are now opposing him. Williams, however, has a large following, and the fight promises to grow warmer. A prominent Republican from Gallatin was here last night and a conference was held, but the parties to the meeting will not divulge what course was mapped out.

WILL FINANCE NEW ROAD. Line to Kirkwood and Valley Park Will Be Built Soon.

W. T. Markee of the firm of Markee & Co. of Philadediphia, yesterday inspected the proposed route of the St. Louis, Webster Groves and Valley Park Railway Company with Paul D. Cable, president of the Company. On their return Mr. Cable announced that the company had agreed to finance the proposition, and that work of construction would be begun at once. It is expected that the new road will be in operation as far as Kirkwood before the lat of May, and to Valley Park within six weeks thereafter. Connection in St. Louis will be made with the Chouteau avenue division of the United Railways Company. The distance from the city limits to Valley Park by the new route is about fifteen miles.

The route is practically a direct line, with only a few heavy grades, and, as a result, the company expects to slash materially the present time table on the street railway routes to Kirkwood and Webster Groves. It is expected that the run to the city limits from Kirkwood will be made in fifteen minutes. A twelve-minute schedule will be adopted. innounced that the company had agreed

WHOOPING-COUGH

The spasms of coughing in whooping-cough may cause a rupture or bursting of a blood vessel, and before medical aid can be gotten it will be too late to save the child's life. Mothers, provide your home with a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Byrup for this emergency. It cures whooping-cough, and colds before they develop whooping-cough, and can be given the haby just as easily as the older child, because it tastes good. Thousands of mothers use it for whooping-cough, croup, colds, measles, etc.

My baby, ten months old, was taken with whooping-cough. I got a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Byrup. After giving her the third dose as prescribed, the cough was not so severe and I had not given her one bottle in all, when her cough was completely gons.

is such a wonderful cure I had to tell you bout it. I will in the future recommend it to all whom I know suffer or any lung or bronchial trouble. No home should be without it."

Be warned of the Substitute. Do not let the druggist sell you a substitute, tar or white pine mixtus "just as good" as Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. He is calculating upon of considering the health of your baby. Buy Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup disappointed in a sure. Price the second state of all disappoints in a sure.
